NewAge Global Fintech

Quarterly Report · Q3 FY2023

For the third quarter of fiscal year 2023

Contents

1. Overview
2. Strategy and operations
3. Results
4. Outlook

1. Overview

Customer research informed changes to the mobile application's statement and document views. Risk management reviewed concentration limits across the lending book and found no breaches.

Card issuing volumes followed the usual seasonal pattern for the period. Regional teams harmonised product terms so that customers see one fee schedule in every market.

Technology spending shifted from new builds towards reliability work on existing services. Customer complaints fell compared with the prior quarter after changes to dispute handling.

The markets desk continued to serve corporate clients with hedging and short-term funding products. The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity.

1.2 Customers

Customer accounts reached 1.5 million at the end of Q3 FY2023, with most new accounts opened through the mobile application.

Staff training covered the revised conduct framework and the new incident reporting procedure. Treasury extended the maturity profile of wholesale funding during the period.

Risk management reviewed concentration limits across the lending book and found no breaches. Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns.

Risk management reviewed concentration limits across the lending book and found no breaches. Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source.

The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity. The group continued to simplify its legal entity structure where this reduces operating cost.

Regional teams harmonised product terms so that customers see one fee schedule in every market. Operating teams completed the migration of merchant onboarding to the shared identity service.

Staff training covered the revised conduct framework and the new incident reporting procedure. Cost discipline remained a priority, and discretionary spending was held flat.

2. Strategy and operations

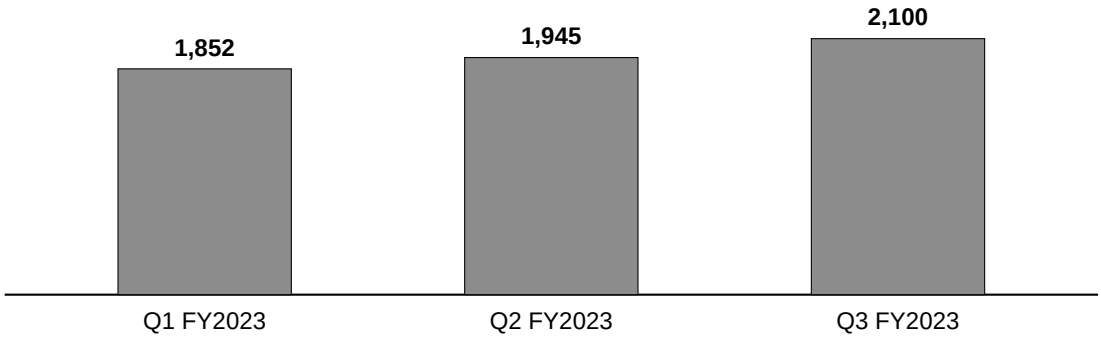
The group continued to simplify its legal entity structure where this reduces operating cost. The compliance function completed its annual review of sanctions screening controls.

The board approved the updated capital plan and the dividend policy remained unchanged. The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity.

Partnership agreements with two payroll providers moved from pilot into general availability. The markets desk continued to serve corporate clients with hedging and short-term funding products.

Cost discipline remained a priority, and discretionary spending was held flat. Staff training covered the revised conduct framework and the new incident reporting procedure.

Figure 1 · Digital transactions processed · millions



The lending business tightened underwriting criteria for unsecured products in selected segments. Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source.

The quarter continued the programme of consolidating payment rails onto a single settlement platform. Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns.

Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source. Staff training covered the revised conduct framework and the new incident reporting procedure.

Operating teams completed the migration of merchant onboarding to the shared identity service. Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns.

The group continued to simplify its legal entity structure where this reduces operating cost. Regional teams harmonised product terms so that customers see one fee schedule in every market.

The board approved the updated capital plan and the dividend policy remained unchanged. Customer research informed changes to the mobile application's statement and document views.

The compliance function completed its annual review of sanctions screening controls. Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns.

Customer research informed changes to the mobile application's statement and document views. Customer complaints fell compared with the prior quarter after changes to dispute handling.

Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source. Cost discipline remained a priority, and discretionary spending was held flat.

The lending business tightened underwriting criteria for unsecured products in selected segments. Card issuing volumes followed the usual seasonal pattern for the period.

Customer complaints fell compared with the prior quarter after changes to dispute handling. Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns.

Card issuing volumes followed the usual seasonal pattern for the period. The lending business tightened underwriting criteria for unsecured products in selected segments.

Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source. The group continued to simplify its legal entity structure where this reduces operating cost.

Treasury extended the maturity profile of wholesale funding during the period. Cost discipline remained a priority, and discretionary spending was held flat.

3. Results

Cost discipline remained a priority, and discretionary spending was held flat. The group continued to simplify its legal entity structure where this reduces operating cost.

Card issuing volumes followed the usual seasonal pattern for the period. Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source.

The markets desk continued to serve corporate clients with hedging and short-term funding products. The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity.

The lending business tightened underwriting criteria for unsecured products in selected segments. The quarter continued the programme of consolidating payment rails onto a single settlement platform.

The quarter continued the programme of consolidating payment rails onto a single settlement platform. Partnership agreements with two payroll providers moved from pilot into general availability.

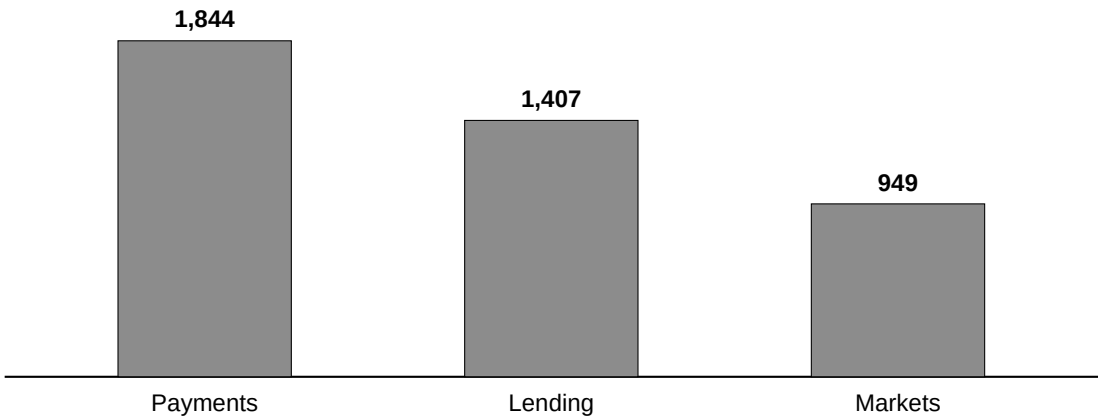
Regional teams harmonised product terms so that customers see one fee schedule in every market. The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity.

The group continued to simplify its legal entity structure where this reduces operating cost. Cost discipline remained a priority, and discretionary spending was held flat.

Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns. Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source.

3.2 Revenue by segment

Figure 2 · Revenue by segment · Q3 FY2023 · USD millions



Partnership agreements with two payroll providers moved from pilot into general availability. The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity.

Card issuing volumes followed the usual seasonal pattern for the period. Cost discipline remained a priority, and discretionary spending was held flat.

3.3 Revenue commentary

Revenue rose in each quarter of FY2023. Management expects modest growth in H2, as pricing changes in the payments business annualise and lending volumes stay selective.

Staff training covered the revised conduct framework and the new incident reporting procedure. The lending business tightened underwriting criteria for unsecured products in selected segments.

The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity. Risk management reviewed concentration limits across the lending book and found no breaches.

Card issuing volumes followed the usual seasonal pattern for the period. Technology spending shifted from new builds towards reliability work on existing services.

3.4 Revenue by quarter

The table below sets out total revenue for each quarter of the fiscal year.

Table 3 · Total revenue · USD millions

Quarter	Total revenue
Q1 FY2023	3,705
Q2 FY2023	3,890
Q3 FY2023	4,200
Q4 FY2023	4,325[1]

[1] Q4 figures are preliminary.

The markets desk continued to serve corporate clients with hedging and short-term funding products. The board approved the updated capital plan and the dividend policy remained unchanged.

Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns. Customer research informed changes to the mobile application's statement and document views.

3.5 Operating expenses

Data platform work concentrated on lineage, so that every reported figure can be traced to its source. Risk management reviewed concentration limits across the lending book and found no breaches.

The group kept its funding mix stable, with customer deposits remaining the primary source of liquidity. Staff training covered the revised conduct framework and the new incident reporting procedure.

Technology spending shifted from new builds towards reliability work on existing services. The lending business tightened underwriting criteria for unsecured products in selected segments.

Table 4 · Operating expenses by region · USD millions

Region	Q3 FY2023
Americas	853
EMEA	853

Table 4 continues on the next page.

Table 4 (continued) · Operating expenses by region · USD millions

Region	Q3 FY2023
APAC	394
Corporate[2]	256
Total	2,356

[2] Excludes discontinued operations.

4. Outlook

The group continued to simplify its legal entity structure where this reduces operating cost. The compliance function completed its annual review of sanctions screening controls.

Treasury extended the maturity profile of wholesale funding during the period. Investment in fraud analytics focused on earlier detection of account takeover patterns.